Ready to Create Your Headspace!
But not sure where to start?

See the top tips below to make your
Street Art design stand out!

TIP # 1

Make the Street Art design meaningful to you!

We want to know 'how are public arts and culture important to your mental wellbeing?'

Here are some ideas to help you get started:

- When it comes to mental wellbeing, think about how public arts and culture has improved your thoughts, your day, and overall feeling
- Imagine a time when a piece of Street Art put a smile on your face or caught your eye and try to relate this idea in the Street Art design
- Think about your friends, your family, your culture, and your town when designing
- Design with the intent to capture the attention of people in public spaces and start a conversation
- Don't be afraid to be bright, bold, and vibrant!

TIP # 2

Be creative - think outside the Box!

Street Art is not just murals or graffiti! Street art's definition is broader and can also include three-dimensional artworks, out of place installations, yarn bombing, video projections, rock balancing, stencil graffiti, wheat pasting and more! They are all forms of Street Art.

TIP # 3

Artwork Statement & Artist Statement

In the Artwork Statement tell us about the street art design and how it addresses the theme, 'how are public arts and culture important to your mental wellbeing?'

The Artist Statement is where you get to tell us about yourself and/or group.
